“Energy Efficiency: How It’s Paying Off for Rhode Islanders”

Hosted By

The Rhode Island Energy Efficiency and Resource Management Council

Wednesday, April 11th

3:00 - 4:30 PM

The VETS Loft, 6th Floor

Veterans Memorial Auditorium

1 Avenue of the Arts, Providence, RI

Why is Rhode Island a national leader in energy efficiency? We have cutting-edge policies and programs that deliver significant energy savings to our industry, businesses, and residents each year. In 2016, Rhode Island’s energy efficiency programs saved homeowners and businesses over $269 million in lifetime energy costs and supported 702 full-time equivalent jobs.

Legislators, energy efficiency vendors, energy efficiency program participants, state agencies, and members of the public are invited to learn how our energy efficiency programs are critical to our state’s economy.

High-profile speakers will highlight the large-scale benefits of energy efficiency, including how this work supports Rhode Island’s economic, environmental, and health goals. Hear firsthand from businesses and residents on how energy efficiency programs have saved them money. Find out how to participate in the public process that oversees these programs. And speak with National Grid representatives to learn how to take advantage of Rhode Island’s money-saving energy efficiency programs.

The Rhode Island Energy Efficiency and Resource Management Council (EERMC) is a group of stakeholders that represents all Rhode Islanders to ensure the utility is investing in the least expensive resource – energy efficiency. Learn more at www.rieermc.ri.gov
